SNAKE NO MATCH FOR LADY WITH A HOE...Pictured above is Mrs. Estelle White of Route 1, Elba with a timber rattler she killed last week. She was out in her yard picking up fallen tree limbs when she noticed one of the "limbs" moved. It turned out to be a rattle snake more than 4 feet in length. Mrs. White got her "trusted hoe" and proceeded to do battle with the reptile. She won! When asked by her son why she did shoot the snake with the gun, she replied, "I knew that I wouldn't miss him with my hoe."

Why The Elba Christian Academy Meets Your Child's Needs

As we all know, good teaching does not guarantee proper learning The question is not, "IS MY CHILD BEING TAUGHT?" The ques tion is, "IS MY CHILD LEARNING THE NECESSARY SKILLS Blacks, and gave it to the rest of the FOR LIFE?" The whole philosophy of the Elba Christian Academy is learning-based, not teaching-based. The Elba Christian Academy has identified five fundamental "Laws of Learning", and we have made these learning concepts the very basis of the Elba Christian Academy program. These laws recogniz they saw someone who would carry *YOUR CHILD MUST BE AT A LEVEL WHERE HE CAN PER-

FORM *HE MUST HAVE REASONABLE GOALS *HIS LEARNING MUST BE CONTROLLED, AND HE MUST

BE MOTIVATED *HIS LEARNING MUST BE MEASURABLE *HIS LEARNING MUST BE REWARDED

With these laws in proper balance, your child will experience controlled, progressive, motivated learning, and your child will receiv a proper diagnosis and prescription in all academic areas resulti in an academic program tailored JUST FOR YOUR CHILD! E.C.A. would like to announce the Pre-Registration for the 94-9. school year will begin on Monday, June 20-June 24, 1994 from 9:00 a.m.-3:00 p.m. Diagnostic testing will be July 18 & 19.

School has been out for less than a week and already the battle lines are being drawn as to which channel the Mularz girls will watch on TV. Melanie likes the Disney Channel and will watch the cartoons and various family movies all afternoon, while Melissa likes Nickelodeon and the two country music video channels. Both girls like to watch movies, but HBO and Showtime don't show very much that I'll let the girls watch. So, I guess we'll just have the battles until they get tired of television and start spending time outside.

At a recent tryout at Enterprise State, Caldwell was the fasted player timed, was the only player to hit any balls out of the spacious park and drew praise even from his fellow players with his strong arm in the outfield. #### Z.C.'S HODGE INKS PACT WITH ENTERPRISE STATE

When someone rides past Zion Chapel High School, one of the first things they notice is the ballfield next to the highway, with a school building sitting behind the leftfield fence. Many might think the field is simply a physical education field; however, the field has produced some of the county's top small school baseball players and this year one of the Rebels made history when Chris Hodge signed a baseball scholarship with Enterprise State Junior College. Hodge has been the schools "MVP" in football, basketball and baseball for the past couple of years and area fans expected the talented senior to possibly sign in football. Hodge waited, and finally signed the scholarship he so richly deserved last week when he inked with the Boll Weevils.

Chris Hodge has been active in all sports since he was old enough to walk and his parents listened to others tell them how the youngster should leave little Zion Chapel and go to a bigger school, where he would certainly draw the attention of college scouts. Hodge remained at Zion Chapel: however, and suffered through losing seasons in almost every sport, every year, but never lost his desire to be the best and never quit being the driving force behind the sports team at the school. He was a Rebel until the end and proved that the size of a school doesn't always matter. Hodge's signing with ESJC should open doors for future Rebel athletes and let the student-athletes at all small schools realize that if they are dedicated and willing to work, their chances at making it at the college level #### are just as good as anyone's. REMEMBER, EVERYBODY CAN'T BE AN ALL-STAR

It is that time of the year when the various baseball and softball leagues start choosing their All-Star teams for the upcoming tournaments, and it also means that it is that time of the year when anywhere from 13-15 kids will be thrilled with the selections in their leagues, while the rest of the kids, around 50 in each league, will be disappointed and shed tears because they didn't make the squads. All-Star teams, unfortunately, are a way of life here in America and teams are chosen all over the nation in leagues where less than one-fifth of those playing are named to the teams. It is never easy for a parent to admit their kids aren't good enough to be All-Stars, and many times some kids make the teams that are indeed not the best in the league. However, parents should support their kids whether they are All-Stars or not, and should realize that their kids are simply smaller versions of themselves, and their skills are usually perfected at home, not at practice with the team.

If your child makes an All-Star team congratulate him, but don't insinuate that he made the team because he is better than the other players. Let him know that he made the team because of his hard work and all the hours of practice he turned in while some of the other kids were watching TV or playing video games. If your child doesn't make the team, give him an even bigger hug and congratulate him on the season, and then explain that everybody can't make the team. Also let him know that if he wants to work even harder next year in an effort to be an All-Star, that you will support him and work with him to be sure he improves and tries again. Not becoming an All-Star is hard for a youngster to accept, but in the long run it could make the parents even closer to their children and make both more understanding of the many challenges that are simply a part of

ON THE GRILL, ONCE OVER LIGHTLY ....

***The push for a football playoff at the Division 1 level in college met a quick death last week when the college officials gathered for their annual meetings in Florida. Such a playoff would have meant some big bucks for the NCAA, but the colleges are now busily forming super-conferences all across the nation and the formation of the "bigger and better" conferences already means more money for the member schools, With the bigger conferences and all the bowl games, the elite of college football simply don't need the extra money at this time. When they do, the playoffs will come about.

***The move of Troy State and Jacksonville State to Division 1AA may very well be the beginning of the end for the Division II World Series in MATT HENDERSON caught this big catfish recently while fishing in a Montgomery. In past years one of the two Alabama powers was almost always included in the field and Patterson Field was packed with baseball fans, but this year neither team was eligible and the absence of any local interest led to the smallest crowds in years. Montgomery has been a tremendous host for the event; however, maybe the time has come for the Montgomery officials to start a push for a 1AA Series and try to lock it-

***Sports Illustrated put out a special edition back when Florida State won the NCAA championship, but it looks like the magazine's writers have never left the "Sunshine State," at least if you have been reading recent issues of the sports magazine. The national publication has investigated the Seminole football program and has apparently found numerous violations of NCAA rules concerning money and merchandise given to FSU athletes. I guess there is always a thrill in uncovering something bad about anyone, or an organization; however, I believe such magazines should try to do their best job of covering the news before they go out and start making the news. It's a shame that sensationalism has made its way into such a fine publication.
